Been lurking for a couple of months, trying to figure out how this forum works. Finally got round to posting. I'm a C/C++ programmer at heart. I mostly do Java now and only when I have to. I've worked in a game company for the past couple of years, where I've been doing the Java/JavaScript/C++ work. I have an unfinished game on codexx.co.uk. It's a simple online game, where you play a group of minotaurs against a group of orcs. You have to avoid traps and kill them all. It's from a couple of years ago, but I'll be updating and adding more classes and content. I really like the game. Really liked the art, the whole feel. It took a while to get the balance right. I've been using C++ for a long time, and coding for the past 5 years. I have no experience with OpenGL/DirectX, and have only recently started using SDL. But, that's about it. I also play guitar (ok, mandolin).
