With a future of war and terror slowly overtaking the Earth, only one man can turn the tide... Presenji, the leader of the human Presencestates. Using years of experience, Presenji and his team of experts are ready to strike against the evil Mulla Zaar. But the alliance is crumbling as the opponents bring in a new and ingenious arsenal of weapons. Only the Presencestates can raise a counter-strike against the evil with a hope of pulling the Earth out of its dark fate. Our Sponsors Latest Blog Posts Welcome to the third review of this year! Many of you no doubt saw the news that Precursor Games, one of the few remaining indie game studios to consistently release solid games, had recently announced they were closing down (we'll review the reasons for this later in this article) and that the company's last game, FPS roguelike Slaves to Armok, was up for a Greenlight vote. Slaves to Armok is a game heavily inspired by roguelikes such as Rogue and the more recent roguelike/hack/slash hybrid Daylight (which we reviewed last month), but differs in that the player character has no classes, and no skill trees or abilities, but it is a close brother of Rogue since it has a very limited number of items and equipment, a limited amount of ammunition per weapon, and the ability to teleport around the world. The player can make a living by hunting other creatures and selling any captured goods at a town market, and has the means to summon a variety of guardians to aid him in combat. The game allows the player to get the most enjoyment from the action gameplay, as the unique and creative use of the player's sole equipment and the game's interesting crafting and item system means players are largely left to play to the rules rather than a strict set of classes like most roguelikes. The gameplay is very much the focus of the game, so the developers have put a lot of effort in making sure the gameplay is as fluid and interactive as possible without the need for too many button presses or slowdown. The game runs smoothly and has a very nice presentation, with some of the designs of the creatures and terrain being very well thought out and executed. Of course, since the game does not feature a complex skill system, most players will find that it is a pretty straightforward game and on a good gaming machine, they can finish it within a few hours. Although I don't feel the

Features Key:

- Battle of the carriers: Air units square off in large space battles. You may only control one of the two carriers on the same battle. The winner of the battle is decided by the side that has the last kill. No health bar. It's all about kills.
- Very tactical gameplay: Air and ground units behave intelligently during the battle. You must think fast.
- Equipped with diverse weapons: With 220 weapons included, you're sure to equip the appropriate weapons for the mission. A maximum of 30 weapons can be equipped at any time. With no random selection.
- Large strategic battles and aircraft carriers: Choose from 20 air units. Win 1st place and win the mission. The battle typically goes for at least 30 minutes. Can last up to 4 hours. The missions make up a collection of the history of the world. This is a game that moves at speed. C&C:Gaea Mission is strategic.

"Pirates Are Blanking Awesome" is a game about pinballing. You control a balls by the tips of your fingers as you try to clear the pinball panels around the boards. The goal is to clear all three boards, which happens when a ball drops from your screen to one of the boards below, and the ball gets stuck. If the ball gets stuck, there's a bet window that pops up. The bet window puts money down and tells you how many points your balls can buy you. Points are used to move your player character around, buy effects, and upgrade the pinball table for new and better effects. There are two ways to win: by clearing all three boards, or by bagging a Bonus ball that appears on any boards you pass. What Is Pirates Are Blanking Awesome? Pirates Are Blanking Awesome is a pinball game created by Steven Suft. You control a ball and avoid getting killed by falling to the bottom of the screen. About the Author Steven Suft Steven Suft lives in Montreal, Quebec. He is the developer and designer of Pirates Are Blanking Awesome. He is a student at Concordia University's School of Interactive Arts and Technology. He has taught himself iOS game development and is inspired by platform games like Super Mario 64. 13th Most Popular Female Lipstick Remaining on Amazon Now, with that out of the way you're probably wondering who's the third most popular lipstick remaining on Amazon. Well, I decided to do a little research. After all, Amazon gets over 150,000 reviews per month, so being a well-rounded resource means keeping an eye on all sorts of data that could help sellers, shoppers, and even Amazon better their businesses overall. Here's a quick breakdown of the Top 20 most popular lipstick on Amazon, with who they are and how many people have bought them. Top Twenty Most Popular Lipstick on Amazon Lipstick Top 20 1

2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 1 - Tarte Amazon Kiss Lipstick in Happy Is the New Cool The Tarte Amazon Kiss Lipstick in Happy is by far the #1 most popular lipstick on Amazon by several orders of magnitude. With over 26,500 reviews by customers, this is the easy winner. Not only has it broken Tarte into the top 20 of all lipsticks on Amazon, but it's also currently the #2 best-selling lipstick with an average review of 4.7/5 stars and a current unit price of $7.49. That's a pretty strong hit, more on why in a minute. Why it is the most popular lipstick As shown above, many customers have bought this product and returned it. So it's not because it's priced low, or it has a fun name, or it comes in pink. Nope, it's this one. Number two is also pink, and it's called China Doll. Most customers like that name, and a lot agree. Reviews call it a classic color and a tasty neutral shade, though I don't think one is the same as the other. I actually think they look very similar in person but mine leans more on the pink side. Anyway, it comes in both raspberry and cherry, so you can pick your specific shade. Why it is the second most popular lipstick It has a pretty good reputation, has received a lot of positive reviews, and is very affordable. It has around 16,700 reviews overall and an average of 4.2 stars. It's also currently ranking #13 on this list. 3 - Lorac Zero
