I'm trying to create a new object, passing the variable where the object should be created to an abstract class, like this: public abstract class Post { public string Title { get; set; } public Post() { //Doesn't work var n = new Discussion { Name = "NN", Time = "NN",Date = DateTime.Now }; } } I am trying to create a new object with an object variable (Discussion) as a parameter for a constructor, and inside the constructor I should set Name, Time and Date, but I keep receiving this error when I try to create an object: Constructor cannot be invoked without 'new' How can I solve this? Thanks! A: The Discussion class should have a parameterless constructor for this to work: public abstract class Post { public string Title { get; set; } public Post() { // Doesn't work
